New partnership with think tank TERI.

Environmental Technology Conference by TERI powered by IFAT India

In 2017 IFAT India's new partner TERI (The Energy and Resources Institute), an independent, leading think tank will host the first Environmental Technologies Conference powered by IFAT India.

TERI's key focus lies in fostering a sustainable development by conducting praxis-oriented research and transferring knowledge into policy, while IFAT India is showcasing the latest environmental technologies and innovative products.

In a one and a half day conference and with an intense involvement of important Indian stakeholders as senior government officials, corporates, members of civil society and academia, this platform will witness deliberations on the need for cleaner and resource efficient environmental technologies.

In the context of a sustainable development, the focus themes of the conference will be Air Pollution, Solid Waste Management and Urban Water Management.
